About MyBlog :

* For Implementation we will use Netbeans IDE 5.5.x and we benefit from Netbeans Visual Web Application tool.

* Log-in will be kept in session and rates will be kept in application bean

(We have not decided how to implement the bussines tier, yet. But, we have already designed the class diagrams etc.)

* In our blog implementation, there are 4 different user type.

a) Normal User : The user who enter s our Blog Page can

- * search article
- * read/not read an article according to article type.

b) Registered User : The user who logs in our System as a user can

- * create blog
- * search article
- * read/not read a article according to article type.
- * write article on his/her blog
- * edit his/her article
- * delete his/her article
- * rate any article in Blog

c) Admin: The user who is created in our System as an admin by super user can

- * read or delete any article in Blog Page
- * add or delete a user

Moreover , he/she has rights of registered user.

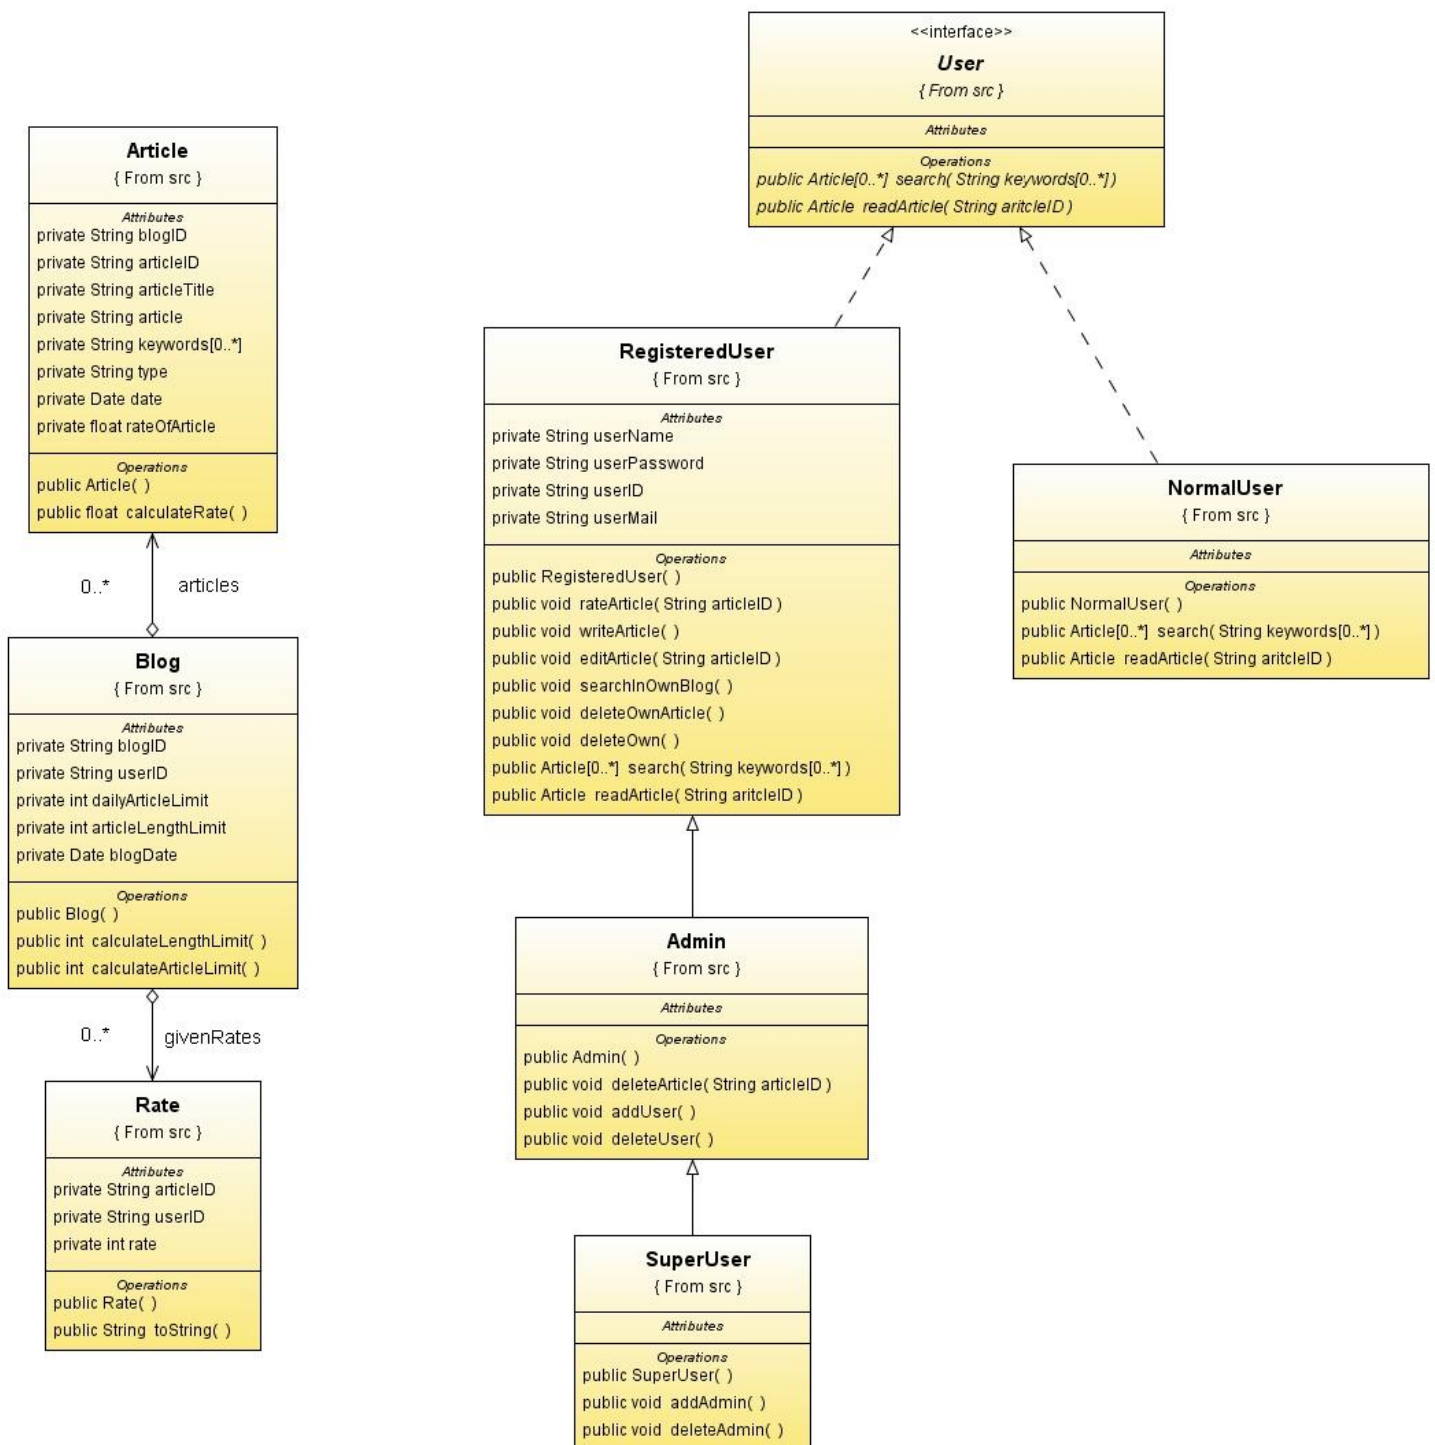

d) Super User : The user who is master admin can

- *add or delete admin

Moreover,he/she has rights of admin.

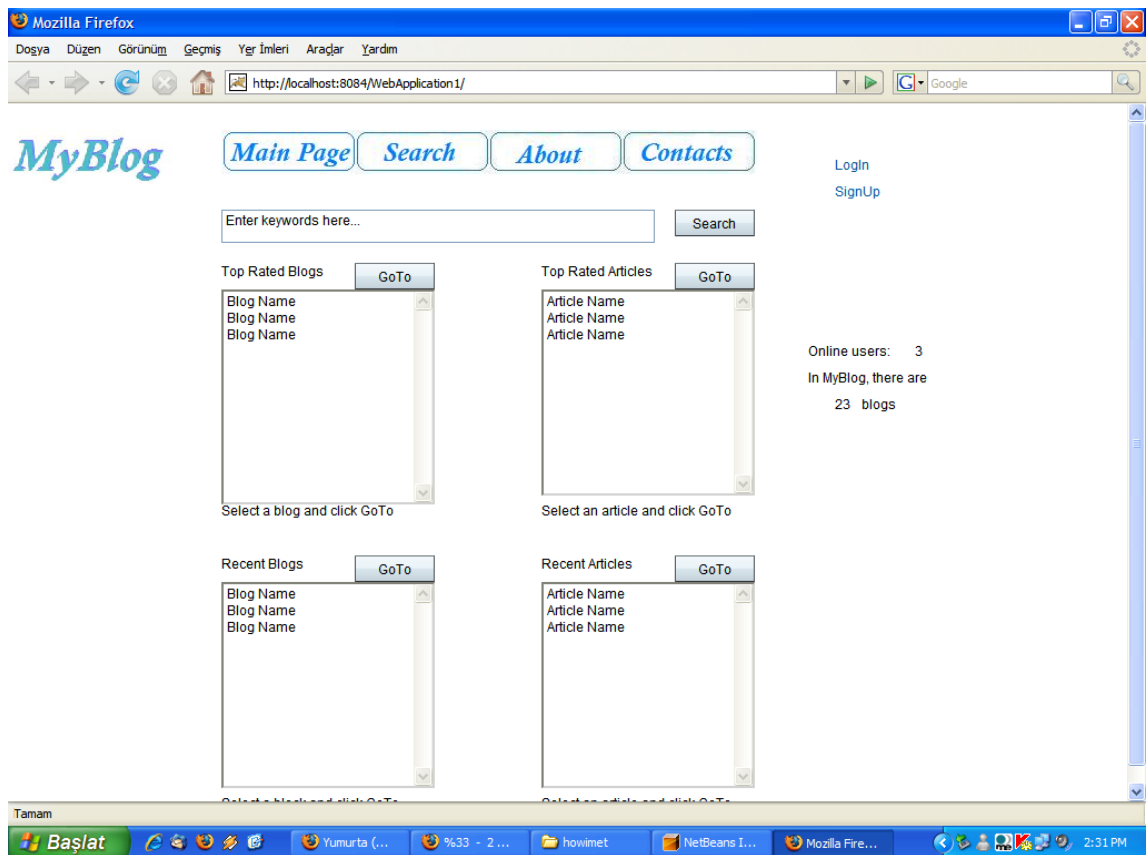

In our Blog implementation, review part will not take place.However, we think that a registered user can send mail to owner of the article directly with our page. For now,we don't implement this.

These are our objects and their relations.
